Project Timeline

| Weeks | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Design | ■ | ■ | ■ | | | |
| Development | | | | ■ | ■ | ■ |

■ Design

Week 1: Layout design

The layout of the app will be determined. The basic navigation structure and placement of interactive elements will be mocked up.

Week 2: Logo /  Artwork

The app's various icons, banners, buttons, color schemes, transitions will be created using base artwork provided by the customer. Artwork that needs to be recreated in vector based formats will be.

Week 3:  Digital mockup

Once the graphics have been created and the layout determined a digital mockup of the app will be provided. This will give the customer a visual, static representation of the final product. At this point any layout changes can be done before any coding makes them permanent.

Week 4:  App development

Once you've signed off on the design and functionality of the app we will get to work building the code that will display your data. Once the coding is complete the customer supplied data will be formatted for display on mobile devices and integrated into the app.

Week 5:  App testing, social media development

It may look like your app is complete, but thorough beta testing on a myriad of devices and simulators is needed to ensure it performs in the field. If you elected to integrate social networking features in your app they will be thoroughly tested also to ensure interconnectivity.

Week 6:  App publishing

Once we're sure all is as it should be, we'll upload your app to the Apple App Store and/or Google Play. Apple will take approximately 10 days to review the app for functionality. Google has no review process so your app will be available immediately. We can  set both versions to launch upon approval by Apple if desired.
